

Platelet Rich Plasma Market is estimated to be US$ 1003.06 million by 2030 with a CAGR of 11.50% during the forecast period

Platelet Rich Plasma Market accounted for US$ 337.23 million in 2020 and is estimated to be US$ 1003.06 million by 2030 and is anticipated to register a CAGR of 11.50%. Platelet-rich plasma (PRP), also known as autologous conditioned plasma, is created by extracting red blood cells from blood. When the concentration of platelets in human blood is reduced, platelet-rich plasma is separated, which contains a concentration of platelets above typical values. Platelets thicken the blood and aid in the repair of muscles, ligaments, and tendons. They are extremely high in healing and connective tissue development factors. Platelet-rich plasma (PRP) blends the body's natural ability to heal itself with modern technologies. It has a wide range of medical applications, including neurology, orthopaedics, and ophthalmology. It's also employed in procedures like tendon repair and rotator cuff augmentation.
